We started at Barcelona's local tournaments. We crossed the Atlantic to compete in Las Vegas. We came back to Europe to play Evo France. Now we want your brand on the next trip with us.

How we read results: Bar = (entrants − placement) ÷ entrants, calculated per tournament from start.gg data. start.gg publishes tied placements (e.g. 25th = tied 25th–32nd), so we say "level with or behind" rather than players beaten. "Top X%" = placement ÷ entrants. We never add up entrants from different tournaments.

Showing 20 of the 60 records documented on start.gg. Some records are side events or team competitions, so they don't equal 60 unique tournaments.

Event audience ≠ team audience. Evo's figures describe the event, not our community. We use them to give context to the competition, not to promise reach. Any audience metrics of our own will be shared with real data.

YOUR BRAND. OUR JOURNEY.

Brands aren't just paying a tournament entry fee. They're partnering with real players, a documented competitive track record and a project that can produce content from inside the community.
